ABOUT ME:

My name is Dontae Esdaile and I'm a computer science major at the University of Delaware. I'm currently a junior and I expect to graduate with a bachelors of science in fall 2022. Ever since I was young, I have always had a deep interest in science and technology and how people interact with them to make their lives easier. I intend to use my studies in school to further my understanding of effective design and problem solving in programming as well as realizing potential market opportunities in software. I plan on seeking a career in project management where I can make informed decisions at a technical and marketing standpoint to create and market products to potential users.
